III. Principles for determining interest rate for loans linked to FRR:

- Bajaj Housing Finance Limited (BHFL/ Company) has developed model for arriving at benchmark rates for different type of customers such as Salaried, Self-employed and Corporates. The model takes into consideration amongst other things, BHFL’s weighted average cost of funds, fund raising cost and liquidity/risk premium, negative carry on investments and expenses incurred to source the loans. The Company has also developed a benchmark rate for extending unsecured loans to its customers. Benchmark rates developed from the above model are termed as Floating Reference Rates (FRRs).
- The said FRRs are reviewed in the Asset Liability Committee meeting (‘ALCO’) and is periodically published on the Company’s website.
- The rate of interest for loans for various products and various schemes thereunder is arrived at through BHFL’s benchmark Floating Reference Rate model, cost on account of risk and tenor premium for the concerned business segment, business specific operating cost, threshold return expectation from the product category and accordingly margin is adjusted to arrive at the lending rate.

- The interest rate for FRR linked loans shall be reset on a monthly basis post change in the benchmark FRR by the Managing Director of the Company and would be effective from the date the customer as approved by Managing Director with due communication to the customer.
- In case of high-ticket commercial loans, on specific request of customer and at the discretion of the Company, these loans may also be referenced to an external benchmark rate of any large Indian banks viz. SBI, HDFC, Axis, etc. Though such loans may be referenced to an external benchmark, the same would be booked in the system on the Company's FRR.

IV. Principles for determining interest rate for loans linked to External Benchmark:

Under the external benchmark model, lending rate would be decided based on the external benchmark plus spread, threshold return expectation from the product category and customer specific credit risk premium, if any.

The benchmark rates under this model could be any one of following:

1. Reserve Bank of India policy Rates
2. Government of India 3-Months Treasury Bill yield published by the Financial Benchmarks India Private Ltd (FBIL)
3. Government of India 6-Months Treasury Bill yield published by the FBIL
4. Any other benchmark market interest rate published by the FBIL from time to time.

The Company would offer loans linked to Repo rate initially and for launching products linked with other external benchmark an operating framework would be prepared and presented in ALCO and for approval of the Managing Director.

The interest rate under Repo linked benchmark shall be reset on a monthly basis post repo change by RBI and would be effective from the day rate change is approved by the Managing Director of the Company. Customers may be provided facility to switch between FRR model to external benchmark linked model and vice versa by paying a switch fee, as may be decided by the Company from time to time.

These external benchmark linked loan rate movements would be updated in monthly ALCO and uploaded on the Company's website.
